INFURIATED BULL GOES BOY ON FARM

JOHN SINSLEY, 16, ATTACKED IN BARN YARD AT SPRUCEVALE

Animal's Horns Pierce Right Side of Victim.

SERIOUSLY HURT Brother Answers Cry of Youth for Help.

John Sinsley, 16 son of J. E. Sinsley, Sprucevale farmer, was seriously injured at 7 o'clock this morning when he was gored by an infuriated Jersey bull which he was driving into the pasture field.

The bull's horn pierced the boy's right side to a depth of several inches. He was attended by Dr. Edward Miskell.

Young Sinsley was driving the cattle from the barn to the pasture field when, without warning, the bull turned and pinning him against the wheel of a wagon in the barn yard.

Roger Sinsley, 18, a brother, who was at work nearby, heard the victim's call for help and drove the bull away. The boy had been knocked to the ground and the bull was ready to gore him a second time when help arrived.

The injured lad was assisted into the house and his father came to East Liverpool for a physician.

SETS AIR MARK

Cornelius Risticz, above, who, with Hans Zimmermann, Junkers pilot, remained continuously in the air for 65 hours 31 minutes, thus beating the Italian duration record by nearly seven hours. The two German fliers dodged severe storms throughout, remaining over Leipzig and Dessau most of the flight.

JARDINE, WORN OUT, ORDERED TO TAKE REST

Agriculture Secretary Must Quit Work for Two Months.

NO FALL STUMPING Cabinet Officer Plans Extended Visit to Canada.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has been ordered by his physicians to give up all activity for at least two months.

He is planning to leave about August 1 on an extended visit to Alaska. Although his friends say his condition is not serious, they frankly admit he is worn down from his close application to work during the last session of congress.

It is expected he will not be able to participate in the campaign this fall, unless he recovers his strength sufficiently to make one or two radio speeches immediately before election.

PITCHER MILJUS GOES TO INDIANS

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—John Miljus, Pirate pitcher, today was released by Pittsburgh to the Cleveland Indians at a "slightly more" than the waiver price, the Pirate management announced today. The exact price was not made public.

Miljus will be remembered for ending the world series against the Yankees last year with a wild pitch after striking out two men.

Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, was unconditionally released yesterday.

SIX ARE RESCUED AS YACHT SINKS

NEW YORK, July 10.—Saved at sea when the schooner Rofa sank in the yacht race to Spain for the queen of Spain's cup, Mrs. William Rofa and the five men who comprised the crew are due to reach New York today aboard the steamer Tuscarora. They were rescued about 800 miles east of New York when both of the schooner's masts were carried away.

HOOVER SPEECH AUG. 11 WILL URGE TARIFF THAT PROTECTS

G. O. P. Nominee Believes in Rock-Ribbed Principle.

CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Secretary to Leave Saturday Night for Brule, Wis.

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON. WASHINGTON, July 10.—All uncertainty over the attitude of Herbert Hoover toward the Republican protective tariff principle will be settled in the Republican nominee's speech of acceptance at Stanford university, Calif., on August 11 it was learned today.

NOTIFY CURTIS ON AUGUST 18

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Senator Charles Curtis will be formally notified of his nomination as the Republican vice presidential candidate at his home in Topeka, Kansas, on the night of Saturday, August 18, Chairman Work of the national committee announced today.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, temporary chairman of the Kansas City convention, is chairman of the notification committee. The Curtis notification will be one week after the California ceremonies notifying Herbert Hoover.

prohibition and other current issues, will take particular pains, in accepting the nomination, to make it clear to the rank and file of the party that he believes in the rock-ribbed, fundamental Republican tariff principle. He will declare himself for the tariff and declare it to be one of the principal issues of the coming campaign.

Will Answer Critics. One of Hoover's closest political advisers revealed this today. He pointed out how opponents of Hoover in the pre-convention campaign had attacked him on the ground that his tariff views were unknown and declared the nominee would answer these critics in the acceptance speech. This adviser also called attention to a pronouncement by Hubert Work, the national Republican chairman regarding the tariff, in his recent letter to national committee members.

In that letter, Work said: "A tariff on imports to protect our workmen in the mills, mines and fields against the competition of foreign goods." (Continued on Page 8, Column 5)

DECAL COMPANY INCORPORATED

Robert A. Weinhardt Heads New Concern Here.

The R. A. Weinhardt Decal Company of East Liverpool was incorporated today, with capital stock listed at $5,000.

The company is headed by Robert A. Weinhardt, who until recently was vice president of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company. Weinhardt will represent the Wiesdemannsche Druckerei company, decalcomania manufacturers, of Saalfeld, Thuringia, Germany, in the United States.

Offices will be opened in the East Liverpool Publishing company building, Washington street, probably next week.

Flier Lundborg, Rescuer of Nobile, Reveals Details of Suffering of Italia's Survivors

LONDON, July 10.—Graphic details of the intense suffering of the marooned survivors of the lost dirigible Italia in their encampment on a drifting ice-floe north of Spitzbergen were revealed for the first time today by the Swedish aviator, Lundborg, rescuer of General Nobile, in a copy-righted dispatch received by the Exchange Telegraph company.

Lundborg, who was himself marooned on the ice-floe for 13 days after his plane capsize on his second rescue flight to the encampment, is now aboard a Swedish relief vessel in Murchison Bay, Spitzbergen. The dispatch came from the ship by radio. Lundborg related that Nobile cried like a baby when he was rescued. He was in such a weakened condition

ROTARY OFFICER

FIVE BANDITS GET $12,000 IN 'WILD WEST' JOB

Line 15 Employees Against Wall in Chicago Robbery.

SCOOP UP MONEY

Flee in Automobile After Dairy Company Holdup.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Five bandits staged a spectacular "wild west" robbery here today in invading the offices of a dairy company, lining 15 employees against the wall and escaping with $12,000.

Four of the bandits, armed with sawed-off shotguns, revolvers and clubs rushed into the offices and forced the employees to the rear. The leader scooped the money from the cashier's cage into a black bag. The bandits then fled to a waiting automobile and sped away.

Mrs. Fannie Obney, 65, formerly of East Liverpool, died today in the home of her brother, A. L. Core, Toronto, O.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial will be made there.

YOUNG FUNERAL IN HAGERSTOWN

Elias Young, 65, father of Atlee I. Young, former organist at the American theater and well known in East Liverpool, died in his home in Hagerstown, Md., Saturday night, friends here were advised yesterday.

Funeral services were conducted at Hagerstown this afternoon.

PRESIDENT SAVES CONDEMNED MAN

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 10.—President Coolidge today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Malcolm Howard, Washington, D. C. Negro, convicted of murder.

DEMS WARNED BY ROBINSON THAT SOUTH IS NOT SURE BET

Vice-presidential Nominee Awaits Party Council.

FORESEES FIGHT

Urges Headquarters Below Mason and Dixon Line.

By George R. Holmes. NEW YORK, July 10.—A thinly-veiled but nevertheless significant warning to the new managers of the Democratic party not to take the south for granted in the campaign at hand was sounded here today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

WET-DRY SPLIT IN MISSOURI

ST. LOUIS, July 10.—Senator James A. Reed, supporting for his successor the candidacy of James A. Collett of Salisbury, wet, over that of Charles M. Hay, Missouri dry leader, issued a statement here today in which he stated that prohibition would be the issue in the Democratic primary here next month.

The Reed statement was looked on by political observers here as splitting the Democratic ranks in Missouri wide open over the liquor question. It also was looked upon as the reopening of bitterest animosities between Reed and Hay, long political personal enemies.

It is a warning which he will take before the full Democratic national committee tomorrow, when for the first time in recent history the party candidates for the presidency and the vice presidency will sit down around a common table with the party managers of all states and "talk plain talk" about the strategy and tactics of this campaign.

Senator Robinson wants the Democrats to establish headquarters in the south and conduct a campaign, just as they always have conducted campaigns in the north and east and west. If Gov. "Fred E. Smith and the national committee adopt his views it will be the first time in history that the party has considered it necessary to conduct a southern campaign.

Points Out Opposition. "Too much stress," said Senator Robinson today, "cannot be laid upon (Continued on Page 8, Column 2)

AWARD COUNTY ROAD CONTRACT

Lewis and Copeland Get Negley-St. Clair Job.

The state highway department, Columbus, today awarded to Lewis & Copeland, Lima, the contract for the surfacing of section D, inter-county highway No. 562, better known as the East Liverpool-East Palestine road.

The Lima firm submitted a bid of $137,377.23 for the job, with the department of welfare, Columbus, furnishing brick at an added cost of $35,509.76.

The job will extend from the village of Negley to the St. Clair-Middleton township line.

OHIOAN HEADS PATENT OFFICE

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 10.—President Coolidge today appointed William Lettingwell Ledrow, of Ohio, to be examiner-in-chief of the United States patent office, succeeding Sidney F. Smith, who died recently.

About 25 per cent of the cost of constructing the separation is assumed by the state, an equal amount by the county in which the work is performed and the remainder by the railroad involved.

The Security Benefit Association will hold their meetings Wed. July 11th and thereafter in "Danceland," Fourth floor over McCrory's Store, E. 6th Street, King Elevator.

POTTERS' CHIEF

President James M. Duffy was toastmaster at the banquet for delegates to the thirty-eighth annual convention of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters in the Potters auditorium West Sixth street, last night.

GOV. AL SMITH TO MAP FIGHT PLANTOMORROW

Democratic Nominee Awaits Committee Meeting.

AWAITS REED

Missouri Senator Will Visit Albany Tonight.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10.—Governor Al Smith today will go to New York where tomorrow he will meet with the Democratic national committee, map his campaign plans, pick a new national chairman and fix the date for his notification ceremony.

The governor planned to motor to Bear Mountain park, 110 miles down the Hudson river, where he will address a Boy Scout outing, pay a brief visit to the New York National Guard camp near Peekskill and then continue on to New York, arriving there early in the evening. If his present plans are carried out the governor will confer tonight with Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, one of the leading contenders for the presidential nomination but who subsequently promised to support Smith.

In working on his campaign plans, Senator Reed was one of the first men to whom Governor Smith turned, according to close friends of Smith, Reed's advice will be followed (Continued on Page 8, Column 1)

GRADE CROSSING HEARINGS OPEN

COLUMBUS, O., July 10.—Hearings of the 50 grade crossing elimination projects, involving the expenditure of approximately six million dollars, planned by the state highway department were scheduled to get underway before Harry J. Kirk, state highway department director, here today.

Hearing to determine the expediency of eliminating a Pennsylvania crossing on state highway No. 12, northwest of Salem in Mahoning county, is assigned for Thursday.

About 25 per cent of the cost of constructing the separation is assumed by the state, an equal amount by the county in which the work is performed and the remainder by the railroad involved.

Eleven Enroll in Swimming Campaign. Eleven men enrolled in the "Learn to Swim" campaign for adults which opened at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The second lesson will be given in the "Y" pool at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Security Benefit Association will hold their meetings Wed. July 11th and thereafter in "Danceland," Fourth floor over McCrory's Store, E. 6th Street, King Elevator.

DELEGATES GO ON RECORD FOR ONE-YEAR STUDY OF PROPOSAL

Fourteen General Ware Resolutions Considered.

SPEED UP MEET

President J. M. Duffy is Toastmaster at Banquet.

Approving the recommendation of the finance committee, delegates attending the thirty-eighth annual convention of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, in session at the headquarters building, in West Sixth street, yesterday afternoon, rejected a proposed old-age pension system for disabled and infirm workers.

Rejection Recommended.

The committee recommended rejection of the proposal in view of previous action which provides for the appointment of a committee of five to make a study of the pension plan. This committee, to be appointed by President James M. Duffy, will make its report at the 1929 convention.

Fourteen wage scale proposals which the general ware workers seek to have embodied in a new agreement with ten manufacturers, were reported by the general ware wage scale committee and acted upon yesterday.

Report of the finance committee, headed by Joseph Kerr, Carrollton, approving mileage of the delegates, was also submitted. The officers report committee of which John Bowers, Cambridge, is chairman, also reported yesterday afternoon.

Morning and afternoon sessions today were devoted to consideration of wage scale proposals. This work is expected to be concluded by noon tomorrow. The convention will adjourn late Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning after selecting the 1929 convention city.

Final social feature of the convention, which was in the form of a dinner-dance, was held in the Brotherhood hall last night. About 250 persons, including delegates and their wives, brotherhood officials and members of the Sebring committee which handled arrangements for the picnic at Lake Seavakeen Saturday afternoon, attended.

President Duffy was toastmaster. Short talks were made by R. H. Smith, Trenton; James Turner, Sebring; Hugh Church, Trenton; A. V. Gilbert, East Liverpool, and the following members of the executive board: First Vice President, George Cartledge, Trenton; Second Vice President, George Chadwick, East Liverpool; Third Vice President, Louis H. Driber, Trenton; Fourth Vice President, William S. Davidson, Trenton; Fifth Vice President, Joseph Smith, Philadelphia; Sixth Vice President, T. M. Woods, Sebring; Seventh Vice President, Frank Hull, East Liverpool, and Secretary-Treasurer John D. McGilivray, East Liverpool.

The dinner was served by the Daughters of America. Music for the dance was in charge of the DeMar Miller orchestra.

Feed Mash All Summer If You Want Real Pullets Next Fall

After 6 weeks change your birds from starting mash to Conkey's Gecco Growing Mash and Conkey's Growing Grains. Make the change gradually, taking about 10 days, then keep both mash and scratch in hoppers before the birds all the time until they are two-thirds grown; then substitute Conkey's Scratch Grains for the Growing Grains, but do not change the Gecco Growing Mash until the pullets are ready to lay.

You cannot go wrong on this method of feeding your growing stock. It is the most economical and practical way and will develop them more rapidly than any other. Try it and see for yourself.

To Help Summerize Your Home

How little cost matters when one considers how much comfort they give. Even if you are remaining in the same place where you spent the winter, it is possible to transform it into a summer home. This is the time to do it, and here is the place where it can be done economically and tastefully. We suggest:

Three-piece fibre sets, for porch or living room—gayly colored upholstered cushions. $62.00 and $68.00.

Breakfast set—solid oak—grey finish—$5-piece—$32.00.

Spinit desk—with chair—mahogany finish—$24.75.

Occasional Chairs—cane back—upholstered seat—$17.75.

Dining-room chairs—ladder back—leather cushion—$4.25 each; 4 for $15.75.

Telephone sets—$6.95 to $13.25.

Smoking stands—$1.00 to $8.50.

Porch rockers—$6.95.

End tables with book trough—$6.95.

End tables—$2.95 to $6.95.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, July 10.—Industrial stocks moved through a narrow range of prices in the forenoon period today. After an irregular opening, in which fractional losses were sustained by a few of the speculative favorites, short covering again entered the market, forcing moderate rallies in radio, General Motors and other active stock. The pools were ready to resume operations in some sections of the market, and professionals dominated the major movements of prices. Reports that the Chicago Reserve Bank heads would take action this week on advancing the rediscount rate reached the financial district as the market opened. It is quite likely that the rate will go up this week or next and particularly if the volume of brokers' loans, as revealed in the weekly report, show an additional expansion instead of the expected contraction. The rise in Pennsylvania Crude oil price, hailed as a significant development in the oil trade, was attributed today to wholly local conditions which were unlikely to affect Mid-Continent oil producers. The oil stocks were in consequence freely sold in the first hour, with prices settling down to a slightly lower level. Summer heat and general public apathy held up speculative activity in this period, and trading was of the typical midsummer variety. The call money renewal rate was posted at 6 per cent, with offerings in far volume. Time money was unchanged, cotton recovered a small portion of yesterday's losses and commodity prices were generally steady, with corn, rye and oats up 1 to 2 cents a bushel, while wheat sold fractionally lower. Metal markets were firm but inactive.

School Health Campaign

Through the cooperation of city and state officials, assisted by representatives of the medical profession, a health crusade was launched in East Liverpool today, when a three-day clinic for school children opened in the Central building in Fourth street.

Approximately 1,000 children who will enroll in the first and second grades next fall will be examined with out charge by state health board specialists and local physicians. If the appeal of the municipal board of health is answered, the clinic, which will close Thursday night, has been approved by the board of education.

In bygone years school work has been retarded by children whose physical defects have not been corrected. Tests suffering from tonsil and adenoid trouble, decayed teeth, etc., have been classed as backward pupils because of their ailments which should have been treated during the summer vacation.

Scores of children, no doubt, will be found to be in ill health when the examinations are made. If so, recommendations will be made by the diagnosticians, and parents should then take steps to eradicate the causes before the school bells ring in September.

And even adults should benefit from the children's clinic, for it probably will convince mothers and fathers and big brothers and sisters that periodical medical and dental examinations are worth while. Persons seemingly in good health should consult the family physician and dentist at least twice a year.

Exodus To Europe

American travel to Europe, this year, is exceeding all expectations of the shipping people as well as breaking all records. It was expected that half a million Americans would visit Europe during the year. At the present rate of Atlantic travel, the total will reach nearly 600,000.

Some conception of the volume of traffic on the North Atlantic may be had when it is stated that last Sunday's shipping chart showed ninety-five liners at sea between northern North America and Europe, forty-three of them bound east with capacity passenger lists and fifty-two sailing westward to carry more Americans to the Old World. Nineteen liners sailed from North Atlantic ports for Europe last Saturday with every passenger accommodation taken.

A fine illustration of the present traffic situation was given by the New York City papers of Sunday, which told of the endeavors of a prominent New Yorker to secure accommodations for himself and wife. Despite the efforts of this New Yorker and his friends, who besought the various lines handling the fifteen liners to sail that day, not even so much as a berth was to be had, much less a cabin. Finally, hearing of their plight and realizing what must be their feelings—the three children of the New Yorker and his wife were aboard the vessel they had missed—the captain of the Hamburg-American liner, Hamburg, surrendered his quarters to them, that the family might be no longer separated than absolutely necessary.

It may be generally assumed that Americans going to Europe during the late spring and summer seasons—the vacation period—are made up of those who go for travel and those who go on business. But there is another element, and far from an indifferent one, which adds to ocean travel at this time. It is made up of those who take ocean trips purely for rest, for relaxation from business or other cares, and for quiet.

There was a time when ocean travel was at least considered one of extreme hazard, and there was a time, even since the advent of steam vessels, when it was, but that day is no more. Statistics show that, under present day conditions, when the average trans-Atlantic passenger carrier is larger and stronger than ever before and equipped with every known safeguard, with the iceberg lanes watched and wireless communication in operation, with iceberg-detecting devices on ships and other devices automatically to warn their officers of the approach of other vessels in cases of fog, there is but one passenger drowned for every 20,000,000 passenger miles. As it was put at the international shipping conference in London recently, had Christopher Columbus crossed the Atlantic monthly ever since he discovered America he would have traveled but 16,000,000 miles and still have had 4,000,000 miles to travel before being drowned.

Thus it is that the sea offers a safe refuge to the tired business or professional man who wishes to escape from the demands made on him by his business or profession, as the case may be, and the hurly-burly of city life for the peaceful quiet the steamship affords, and thousands of them yearly make round trips for no other reason. The big steamship of today is a great floating hotel which assures a restful peace and quiet which no hotel ashore can offer.

As London Sees Us

Captioned "America's National Sport," an editorial in the London Times makes this more or less patronizing comment on the national campaign in the United States:

"One must not think of politics or parties in the United States in terms of public life. To do so is to misunderstand them completely. The Republicans and Democrats in no way resemble our conservatives, liberals or socialists. They are really nothing but two rival electioneering organizations striving for office and the spoils."

Whew! That's a slam for fair. And this London editor implies that British politics are conducted on a more dignified plane, in an atmosphere the sweeter for its incense, than American politics.

The London editor forgets that seemingly the end, aim and purpose of every political party in England is to stay in office once it gets in, and oust the other fellow when it is out.

English politicians play to the mob, maneuver, propagandize, jockey, trim, hedge and generously disseminate hehum to the populace with such consummate skill that the wildest-eyed demagogues and the most adroit strategists on this side of the Atlantic might profitably sit at the feet of their British cousins as pupils in quest of perfection in their professional political technique.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—The perspective given from the air lends a new scale of values both to geography, history, and internationalism. Seeing cities and mountains and streams in their relation to each other, and panoramas instead of isolated views, is promoting the development of international sympathy and interest. Governments have been quick to realize this, and as a result of the encouragement given to aviation, decorated aviators who are ambassadors of goodwill from one nation to another have become the great diplomatic pastime.

How can the fruits of a man's life be more comprehensively seen and appreciated than by an hour's flight which would include the city selected by Washington as the seat of government of the United States, Alexandria, the town of his youth, and Mt. Vernon, his estate, now the shrine of a nation.

At Mt. Vernon the widening Potomac invites to a longer flight over the tide-water country, where the builders of a nation toiled in the fields, or rode after the hounds, according to their station.

On one of these flights, ironically, the protected plane, equipped for comfort, passes over the place where Langley's hopes and dreams were dashed to despair with the chicken-like hop of the little flying machine he had designed to soar like an eagle.

One company maintains planes which fly over the vast area of the Gettysburg battlefield. Many thousands of tourists have patiently climbed the towers at Gettysburg, listened to their guides, and studied their books in order to gain an idea of the dreadfulness and tragedy of the three days Northern and Southern armies fought there, but for the first time it is possible for them to see comprehensively this battlefield. From the air the panoramic view reveals the details of the Union and Confederate positions and the battlefield between.

By the large aviation division under the department of commerce, the government at Washington demonstrates its belief in aircraft not only as a means of promoting international goodwill, but as a factor loomed large in transportation and commerce. In its compilation of air traffic rules and regulations and requirements for fliers, the department has established standards that are for the welfare of those who fly and those who are flown over.

Read this code and it is apparent that safety in flying is the paramount interest of the authorities. Stunt flying is out and the era of safe and sane flying is in, because flying is now for the public in general and not for the adventurous and extravagant.

According to officials of one of the air companies in Washington this imposes no hardship on agencies of air transportation, because ninety-five per cent of their passengers are tourists who wish to see the sights of the city from the air or who wish to go somewhere in a hurry. They are not interested in acrobatic flying. By the ever increasing tendency of the states to imitate federal flying regulations, aviation is being put on a basis where only thoroughly responsible companies and persons may go into it for profit. Pennsylvania, which is one of the states leading in the control of air traffic, compares flying services to public carriers, and is issuing to companies conducting transportation by means of aircraft public-service charters similar to the ones given to street car companies and other concerns engaged in the transportation of the public.

The legislature of the State of New York is concerning itself with a program of aeronautic regulations that will come up to the standards of Col. Lindbergh who visited it to arouse interest.

Sightseeing is sightseeing and the way of getting about it makes little difference. For the athletic, a walk around the place of interest, or a hike for those who banker for knickers and knapsacks, afford views that are intimate. Bicycles, janting cars, snowshoes, canoes, janting cars, canoes, street cars, the seagoing back so reminiscent of Victorian days, the private motor car, a good old horse and buggy—all are the means of satisfying the age-old curiosity that takes man from his doorsteps to see the world.

Now the airplane gives that bird's eye view that makes the tour complete.

Questions and Answers

B. Frederic J. Haskin.

Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing to our Information Bureau in Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. The reply is sent direct to the inquirer. Address the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Does the Smithsonian Institution buy heirlooms? M. W. P.

A. It has no funds with which to purchase such articles. It has accepted many gifts, and has had many valuable exhibits lent to it for the period of twenty years.

Q. Please define the different kinds of tariff. E. C. C.

A. A tariff levied for the support of the government only is called a tariff for revenue. A tariff levied with a view to increase the cost of foreign goods, and thus to assist native manufacturers, is called a protective tariff. A tariff so high that it practically shuts out foreign goods is called a prohibitive tariff.

Q. What became of the Savannah, the first steamship to cross the ocean? H. W.

A. The Savannah made the first trans-Atlantic voyage in 1819. In 1820 it was sold by the original owners. The machinery was removed and sold to the Alliance Iron Works of New York. The vessel was then employed as a sailing ship between New York and Savannah until she was wrecked on Long Island in 1822.

Q. What species of birds build a courting parlor before mating? N. H. T.

A. The different types of Bower-birds found in Australia build various types of bowers which serve as a stage whereon the male may display his grace and activity before his feminine audience. Some build cabins with lawns in front, some an arbor, and others a sort of platform decked with mosses, flowers, and bright berries. These bowers are entirely distinct from the nests.

Q. How old is Ida Tarbell? F. F.

A. Miss Tarbell, historian, writer, and editor, has passed her 70th birthday.

Ritzy Rosalie

Whether Rosalie is shampooing her hair, or whether it should be called dry cleaning, is a question for debate. Such fluids as naphtha and benzine have heretofore been considered cleansing agents for fabrics only, but Rosalie heard that it also cleans the hair. Carbon tetrachloride is also used. Of course she rinses her hair several times afterward, but even at that it might not be wise to light a match close by too soon.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The spiritual distortion of the younger generation has provided an endless theme for writers, playwrights and moralists. If they are to be believed, flaming youth is burning out in a white hot flame. New York is painted a paradise of adolescent wickedness.

The moment a child is able to reach for a cocktail here he begins the scamper off on a sin-stained career. The girl who reaches 18 without being trundled off to an alcoholic cure is regarded as eccentric. At least this has become a growing notion.

Somewhat the other side of the picture is never revealed. There is a young man of 20 who is studying dentistry. At 5 o'clock every evening he becomes a taxi driver until midnight. He reaches his college every morning at 8 and supports his mother.

There are two sisters who are waitresses in one of the chains of restaurants. Their working hours are from 7 in the evening until midnight. On account of their beauty they have had three theatrical offers—one from Zeigfeld no less. They support themselves as waitresses and do social welfare work during the day.

That the younger generation is not going to pot is also proved by the large number of ambitious young men who are working as bellhops, elevator operators, movie ushers and soda jerkers and devoting spare time to studying for a profession. These are numbered in the thousands.

Nor is this ambitious activity confined to sons and daughters of poverty stricken homes. A recent social survey shows there are in New York more than 26,000 young men and women under 25 whose family affluence precludes the necessity of working, yet who have become financially independent.

And if one takes the trouble to visit the various social centers where intellectual attainments are made possible for young folk they will find them crowded, indeed far more crowded than cheap dance halls and other haunts where youth is supposed to fling away morals and hope.

One of the well known illustrators has his studio adjoining his home and it is here he turns out his enormous magazine output. Recently his wife employed a new maid. After a few days of seeing the artist around the house all day, the maid approached her mistress with the suggestion she would take a slight reduction in salary. "I'll do this," she explained, "until your husband gets on his feet."

The block in West 67th street running off of Central Park West houses more artists and illustrators than any other block in town. The Hotel des Artistes is there and nearly all the apartment buildings are the north lighted studio type.

Among the artists who live or have lived in the artistic center on West 67th street are Penryn Starnaws, Howard Chandler Christy, James Montgomery Flagg, W. T. Benda, Harrison Fisher, J. Knowles Hare, Coles Phillips, R. M. Brinkerhoff, Ray Kohn, Dean Cornwell, Tony Sarg, LeRoy Ripley and Haskell Coffin.

An actor reveals a discouraging side of his calling. He is a popular leading man and has appeared in many sterling productions. One play in which he appeared on Broadway ran 18 months. For the past two years he has had but three weeks' employment and while his salary was $500 a week he finds his pay averages much less than a small clerkship. But boys will be actors.

Theatrical salaries appear grand, but unless employment is steady they are often far below the average wage.

For years I have been among those who suffer in silence at the theatre while ambidextrous neighbors trample over my feet for a hasty exit when the curtain falls. Last night the worn turned. With the crook of my cane I caught a fellow around the ankle who had pirouetted on both my buns, and down flat he went into the aisle, high hat, waxed mustache and all. It sometimes takes time but we of the Northwest Mounted always get our man.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

A watchful doctor observes many things which shock him. He knows that physical suffering will follow what the careless actor never gives a thought. For instance, many a mother cumbered about with household cares picks up her skirt and wipes the running nose of her snuffling child.

Don't laugh. You have seen this done a hundred times.

This skirt has been swishing over the dusty, germ littered sidewalks or basement floor. If there is any truth whatever in the germ theory of disease, there must be clinging to that skirt billions of disease-producing organisms.

But even if the dress isn't used in this way, it may be the family handkerchief instead. It isn't pleasant to talk about, but I am anxious to bring home to every mother the importance of proper care of baby's nose.

Many diseases are hand conveyed. It is probable that influenza, pneumonia and the common cold are transmitted in this manner.

Ears are due to an infection passing from the nose to the ear. If one child has an earache, due to the extension of an inflammation from the nose, you can readily see what the danger is. The nasal discharges from the sick child, if conveyed to another child, will cause a similar inflammation of the nose and, pretty soon earache will follow.

The common use of mother's handkerchief may be responsible for all the trouble. The eating utensils, drinking glasses, and all the toilet articles used by the sick child must never be used by another member of the family.

The baby's nose should be carefully cleaned by the freshly and thoroughly washed hands of the mother. If the child is too young to be taught to blow his nose on his own handkerchief, the nasal cavities must be cleaned out by the use of cotton.

Wrap a clean wooden toothpick with a layer of cotton, making it about the thickness of a slate pencil. With this, carefully wipe out the nasal passages, going in only so far as you can see when the child is lying down on his back in good light. You will do no harm when you see what you are doing. But do not work in the dark.

To soften any hard substance that cannot be readily removed squeeze into the nose a bit of white vaseline. This should be squirted in from the tube in which the vaseline comes. After a few minutes the nose can be wiped with the cotton-covered toothpick.

If the child is "snuffly" or sleeps with his mouth open as a result of the cold, a little of the vaseline left in the nose will relieve the swelling and add to the comfort of the little patient.

Every "running nose" requires attention. Care of very acute condition will result frequently in speedy cure of the cold.

If every mother would give attention to the scrupulous cleanliness of baby's nose, many a child would escape adenoids, tonsillitis, bronchitis and pneumonia. Care of the nose in childhood means freedom from catarrh in adult life. Freedom from catarrh means escape from deafness.

Other Editors Say

Digging Graves With Teeth.

"Girth control" has assumed great importance in the minds of medical men throughout the country. They do not look upon heavy-waisted men and women from the standpoint of aesthetics, but of health. For obesity, in most cases, indicates that the victim eats far more than is necessary for the sustaining of life and usually eats a superfluity of the wrong kinds of food.

More than 500 obese patients are under treatment in one New York hospital where efforts are being made, by corrected diets, to take off some of the excess fat. It is much easier to put on than to take off. Among the significant things learned by physicians at this clinic is that, as the waistline grows, life expectancy falls.

Intemperance in eating is as great a menace to life as intemperance in drinking, physicians attest. On the other hand, starvation methods of reducing work have, with the bodily structure. For the sake of health, as well as appearance, it behooves both men and women to avail themselves of information concerning correct diet. At least three great national figures might be alive and active today if they had heeded this advice which long has been broadcast by health authorities. The glutton digs his own grave with his teeth.—Columbus Dispatch.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Does Brother Cramp Your Style? It pleases you to see brothers and sisters appear to be congenial.

The fact impresses you that they seem to get so much more out of life. But how do you act toward your brothers and sisters?

Are you cross and irritable, ever ready to enter into an argument or dispute their right to present their ideas?

Do you try to enforce your opinions upon other members of your family? Does the presence of your brother or your sister dampen the ardor of your enjoyment?

Do you feel that you cannot make as favorable an impression on others when a member of your family is present?

Or do you make your brothers and sisters feel uncomfortable when in the society of outsiders by displaying an antagonistic spirit or by ridiculing the words and actions of your relatives?

If you are this sort of person you are losing friends as well as missing a lot of happiness.

You are depriving them and others of additional joy they might experience if you were trying to get along amicably with your brothers and sisters.

Safeguard Your Funds With Blue Paper

WHEREVER you travel, whether at home or abroad, there is no more dependable way of safeguarding your funds than through the use of American Express Travelers Cheques.

This universally known, insured, "blue money," as it is commonly called, protects your funds wherever you may chance to roam. A simple system of signing and countersigning protects the holder in case of loss or theft. If lost or stolen, uncountersigned, the value of the cheques will be refunded.

Travelers Cheques are sold in convenient denominations—$10, $20, $50 and $100. Their cost is insignificant—75¢ per $100. Spendable everywhere, they serve as a financial "letter of introduction." Be sure the Travelers Cheques you purchase are blue. Purchasing them at this bank assures you of that "peace of mind" that comes from absence of worry and the fear of losing ones funds.

The sale of Travelers Cheques is only another of the many services which this bank offers to travelers.

Moslem Die-Hards To Battle on Women Discarding Veil

BEIRUT.—The daring Moslem woman who ventures in public without her veil is going to regret it, if the die-hards here can make good their threats. Proclamations have recently been issued here urging the holding up by force, if necessary, women thus underdressed who appear on the streets of Beirut.

A recently published book by Zein Eidin, a Moslem woman, commending the introduction of modern western habits into Syria is said to be responsible for this renewed agitation against the discarding of the veil. The Moslem women have also, no doubt, been influenced by the example of Queen Souriya of Afghanistan, who was unveiled the whole time in Europe, and according to rumor intends to relinquish it altogether.

Western Australia has offered a prize of $250 for the best ode to celebrate the centenary of that section.

Council to Inspect Report on Finances

Seek Funds for Construction of Seventeenth Street Sewer and for Payment of Storm Repair Work.

Facing the necessity of obtaining money from some source which they have not yet discovered, Wellsville councilmen will hold another adjourned session tonight at which they will present a financial report that will be presented to them by City Auditor Fred Eckfeld.

A series of breaks in the 16-inch water supply line from the municipal reservoir in Little Yellow creek to the city, as well as countless smaller jobs caused by the recent heavy rains, necessitates the appropriation of funds to meet heavy expense incurred by this repair work. The city's present financial condition also may preclude the possibility of constructing the Seventeenth street drainage sewer, councilmen were told at their last regular meeting, a week ago. The council's course of action in respect to this project will be determined largely by the recommendations contained in Eckfeld's report.

The city can issue bonds within a certain limitation. After that a vote of the people is necessary.

MISSION UNIT TO MEET TONIGHT

Members of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will convene tonight at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Urie, Tenth street.

Mrs. Fred Lowary and Mrs. Earl Ward will have charge of the program.

CHURCH PLANS ITS HOMECOMING

Under the direction of a committee composed of the Rev. D. E. Young, pastor, T. C. McClelland and John Caldwell, arrangements are being made for the annual homecoming ceremonies to be held in the First Christian church.

The date for the event has not been determined, although it will be held sometime during the month of September.

JAMES STRABLEY INJURED IN MINE

Jammed between a large moving motor and the ceiling in the Beaver Dam mine at New Philadelphia Friday, James C. Strabley, 31, mine operator, son-in-law of Mayor and Mrs. W. L. Fogo of Broadway, is reported in a serious condition in the hospital there.

While Strabley was replacing a trolley on the motor his clothing caught the controller handle, turning on the electricity.

Wife Asks Divorce.

Samuel Farley, aged 66, a farmer, near Parkersburg, W. Va., has been sued for divorce by his wife, Clara Farley, of Wellsville. They were married at Lisbon March 1. The wife, who charges gross neglect of duty, asks that her former name, Clara Bell Nicholson, be restored.

Radio Tunes in on Street.
Pedestrians in one of the busy streets of Glasgow, Scotland, recently were amazed by sweet strains of music issuing apparently from a young woman, who was blushing furiously. She had just bought a portable radio set that had not been shut off when she left the store. While she was on the street the Glasgow station began broadcasting, and she did not know at first how to shut off the machine.

BRITISH HEIR BUILDS PLANE FOR OWN FLYING

Prince of Wales Will Hop to Engagements.

FEDDEN DESIGNER

Machine is Nearing Completion at Works in Dorsetshire.

LONDON.—Having been introduced to the thrill of traveling by air but a few weeks ago, the Prince of Wales, with characteristic zest, is now having an airplane built for his personal use.

Already he has made several lengthy flights in a Royal Air Force plane, and it is stated as soon as the machine now being built is delivered he will make more and more use of the airplane as a means of fulfilling distant engagements.

His new machine is a Westland Bristol general purpose type, fitted with Handley Page automatic safety slots. It is now nearing completion at the Westland Aircraft works, Dorsetshire.

Reliable Type.
It is a reliable type of aircraft, of proved worth and is used by the Royal Air Force when a plane not of the superfast or very big type is needed. The engine is of 450 horsepower, air-cooled, designed by Roy Fedden, who has been responsible for all of the Bristol type engines.

The plane itself was designed by Alfred Davenport, chief designer of the Westland firm. It is a biplane of conventional appearance, but with a very striking looking nose, which gives the craft a very businesslike look. The fuselage is of metal construction built up on square tubes and has been made extra roomy for the Prince's comfort. The passenger's seat will be specially fitted and plenty of room will be left for suit cases and other baggage.

Everything possible is being incorporated to make the plane practically foolproof, many people having questioned the advisability of the prince risking his neck in an airplane. The engine cowling has been specially designed to that the whole of the engine can be brought speedily to view, thus insuring that there is no chance of worn or defective parts passing unnoticed.

In addition to the safety slots fitted on the wings, which are a guarantee against nose-dives or spins by error, a patent shock-absorbing undercarriage is being fitted.

The plane will be kept at Northolt Airdrome, a Royal Air Force airbase in Northamptonshire, for the prince, and Flight Lieutenant Don, Senior Flight Lieutenant in the Communication's Squadron, will be always at the prince's disposal to act as pilot.

Common People To Have Voice in Motor Licensing

HARTFORD, Conn.—A plea for the average citizen to express his views on the motor vehicle condition has been made by Robbins H. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles. "An administration of traffic laws needs the help of every person," he says. Especially does Commission Stoeckel want the help of auto manufacturers "by conferences and agreement to suggest new laws which will provide for safety in machines."

The commissioner fears that "simplicity of construction may result in adequacy," and he also fears that "worthy systems may be refused by reason of drastic interpretations of existing laws."

RELIEF NEAR AS HEAT WAVE TOLL MOUNTS

Two Prostrations and Two Drownings in Northern Ohio.

GIRL, 5, VICTIM

Identify Man Found Dead on Street in Massillon.

CLEVELAND, July 10.—Cooler weather was promised by the local weather forecaster today as two additional deaths from heat and two from drowning were added to northern Ohio's toll during the most recent heat wave. A heavy rainstorm which flooded a section of the west side here late Monday, brought the temperature from a high of 86 degrees at 1 p. m. to 71 at 3 p. m. The latest heat victim was Joseph Ziss, 42, who died in a hospital after suffering a stroke while unloading sand here.

At Dover, O., the 5-year-old daughter of Elmer Huprich, died from effects of the heat.

A man found dead from the heat at Massillon yesterday was identified as Frank Dalton, 45, of St. Paul's Station.

Emil Blitchiviat, 21, Cleveland, was drowned at Geneva, while swimming in Lake Erie, and an unidentified boy was reported drowned at the foot of West 11th street, Cleveland.

pretty closely by the governor throughout the campaign.

Unless there are last minute changes, Senator Peter Gerry of Rhode Island is expected to be the new national chairman. He has long been a close friend of the governor and was described by New York Democratic leaders as one of the hardest Smith workers at the national convention.

The governor is said to already have worked out in his own mind a plan for his campaign which he will submit to the national committee at tomorrow's meeting. He is expected to devote most of his campaigning to the east, leaving the west to his running mate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, and to Senator Reed. He probably will make one trip through to the Pacific coast as the west can see and hear him, confining himself to two or three speeches a week in the large cities. One thing the governor will insist upon, it was said today, is that every one of his campaign speeches be broadcast through a network of radio stations.

The governor conferred for more than an hour at the executive mansion with his running mate, Senator Robinson, and Jesse Jones, Democratic leader of Texas. This was the first that Smith and Robinson had met in four years.

"My meeting with Governor Smith has been to me a happy incident and our conversation promises complete cooperation in the campaign," said Senator Robinson following his conference with Smith.

In his first official statement since he expressed his views on prohibition in his telegram to the national convention, the governor today had made plain his position on agriculture. In a message to William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, he declared that he stands squarely on the farm plank in the Democratic platform.

In the event of his election he said he would immediately call a "conference of leaders" to work with him during the winter to develop a concrete plan embodying the principles of the farm plank so it could be submitted to congress at its opening session.

Settle had wired the governor asking for an expression of his personal position on the farm plank and also requesting that he state the procedure which he would follow in the event of election as president.

"The farmers are looking for assurance of relief from the economic servitude in which they have been held for seven years," Settle said in his wire to the governor.

In announcing his stand on agriculture, the governor wired Settle as follows:

"As to agriculture, I stand squarely on the pledges given by the Democratic party at Houston. I understand and sympathize with the objects which organized agriculture is struggling to attain and which our party has promised to help them secure."

"If the election returns disclose that I have been chosen president, I will not wait until I am inaugurated before acting on this problem. I will, immediately after the election, call a conference of leaders to work with me during the winter to develop a concrete plan embodying the principles of the farm plank so that I may transmit to congress at its opening session a definite program accompanied by suggestions for the necessary legislation to make it effective."

The governor's friends today confidently predicted that his declaration on the farm problem would bring votes to him in the agricultural states in the middle west.

NOBILE PARTY'S MESSAGES CEASE

LONDON, July 10.—Wireless messages from the Nobile survivors on the ice floe off North East Land have ceased, said a Central News dispatch from Virgo bay this afternoon. This is regarded as an ominous sign. The dispatch added that an airplane is ready to make a reconnoitering trip over the ice as soon as the weather clears.

Democrats Warned

the value of an organization that shall extend its activities to every part of the country.

"I would like to have the national committee consider the establishment of a bureau of headquarters of some central point in one of the southern states for the direction of the campaign in the south."

"Conditions in that section are very different from those which have prevailed in other national campaigns. An organized effort is in progress in several southern states to defeat the national Democratic ticket, and while the force and volume of this movement is not yet known, I am of the opinion that sound policy should prompt our party managers to meet this opposition decisively and promptly."

Lauds Gov. Smith.
The Arkansas senator did not specify "the organized effort" that is prompting the defeatist movement, but it was apparent that he had reference to the radical dry and anti-Catholic rebellion against Smith. The ring leaders of this movement at present are Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist church, and A. J. Barton of Georgia, one of the leaders of the Anti-Saloon league.

The attitude of the vice presidential nominee is that this may be only a blaze now, but that if unchecked and ignored by the new ruling of the party, which are distinctly northern and damp, it may develop into a prairie fire before November.

Senator Robinson, on his first visit to New York in a long time, held veritable court today in a cool apartment perched high along Park avenue. He was glowing from the sincerity of his reception at Albany, where he met Gov. Smith, and in New York where numerous party leaders called on him during the day.

Gov. Smith he described as "the outstanding personality in politics of our time."

"The energy and enthusiasm of the Democrats of New York," he said, "which must be manifest to every one, is a tribute to Gov. Smith, whose personal magnetism and genuine interest in the welfare of the masses, makes him the outstanding personality in the politics of our time."

Little to Say About Issues.
Of issues, the southern senator had little to say today. Those will come, he said, before the party powwow tomorrow, and in Gov. Smith's and his own speech of acceptance. He did say his own speech will be delivered at Hot Springs, Ark., instead of at the state capital at Little Rock, and he "invited all New York."

"What legislation the Democrats, if successful, will advance for the relief of farm producers, I can only say in a general way that the attitude of our party toward the problem of farm relief, as expressed in the platform and in Gov. Smith's statement of his own personal views, is wholly sympathetic," he said.

"I don't want to attempt now to outline desirable legislation on the subject. But specific suggestions will be presented early in the campaign."

Robinson voted for the McNary-Haugen bill, and voted to override President Coolidge's veto of that measure.

Party leaders were pouring into New York today for the big meeting tomorrow. National committeemen and national committee women from most of the states, even the far western ones, will be present, it appeared today.

The principal job is the selection of a national chairman, and decision upon a broad outline of the campaign to be conducted. Incidentally, the date for Gov. Smith's notification will be set.

50 TOTS VISIT SCHOOL CLINIC

Visiting Physicians and Nurses Assist in Examinations.

Fifty children, who will enroll in the first and second grades next year, were examined in the pre-school clinic, which opened in the Central school building, Fourth street, today under the direction of the board of education.

Drs. Alfred B. Lippert and Dr. Finley Van Orsdal, of the state department of health, and Mrs. Esther Hauptly and Miss Helen Kienle, state nurses, are assisting in the clinic. Health Commissioner Edward Miskall and Drs. John Fraser and Samuel Rich, local physicians, were assigned to the clinic today. Other assistants are Miss Esther Neal, school nurse, and Misses Helen Jobson, Helen Allison and Lillian Weible, elementary school teachers.

The clinic will continue tomorrow and Thursday. Pupils attending the Walkers, Washington, Lincoln, Maplewood, Gardendale, Pleasant Heights, and Glenmoor schools will be examined tomorrow. Appointments should be made in advance with Miss Esther Neal, school nurse, who can be reached by calling telephone 1932.

dropped by Major Maddalena's plane. For dinner we had bear's meat which we cut with scissors. Lieut. Vigliani rationed out the food and was in complete charge of the camp.

"Cecconi, the chief mechanic of the Italia, was badly wounded. When my plane oversetled on my second landing, he had been brought to the place where the others expected. I would land so that I could rescue him next. But when we found that my plane was too badly damaged to take off again, we made a comfortable bed for him on the wings of my Fokker, as he was very heavy and the task of bringing him out on the ice had already overtaxed the strength of the others."

"The next day we moved the tent out under the Fokker as it was easier to do that than move Cecconi. Life in the tent was far from pleasant. We were all nervous and sometimes our frequent discussions became violent."

Terrific Cyclone Raged.
"For five days, a terrific cyclone raged. Although most of us were sick with fever, and unweary, each kept a four-hour watch throughout the storm. Finally, although suffering from a high fever, heroically crept from the tent twice a day to attempt to keep us in communication with the outer world."

"During the storm we almost gave up hope completely. In the blackness of the night, it was terrible and even in the daytime it was so dark, you could hardly see a few feet away."

"After the storm, the weather cleared and we were able to see Cape Leitz Smith distinctly. Flying conditions were excellent and we became despondent because the relief expeditions did not take advantage of them."

"Finally two planes appeared over the horizon. One, a moth, was piloted by Schyberg. The other, the Hansa, was piloted by Jacobson. Jacobson circled over the camp while Schyberg landed and took me aboard. I never was so thankful in my life. I broke completely when I was taken aboard."

BOY SCOUTS, MARKING LINCOLN HIGHWAY, VISIT HERE THURSDAY

Lincoln Highway Marker

Scouts and Their Covered Wagon

Location of new Lincoln highway markers, which will be erected in Columbiana county by Boy Scouts, will be designated Thursday when the Boy Scouts' "Covered Wagon" enroute from New York to San Francisco, arrives in East Liverpool.

The "coast to coast" party in the demonstration tour will include Edward B. Pratt, Fairfield, Conn.; Bernard Queneau, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Carl Zappfe, Jr., Brainerd, Minn.; and Mark Hughes, Joliet, Ill., 15-year-old Scouts, and Charles H. Mills, manager of the party, and Remo M. Lombardi, director of demonstrations.

Demonstrations in highway safety, first aid to the injured and life-saving will be given in practically every city and town of any size from one end of the highway to the other.

The "covered wagon" will be met by County Scout Executive Charles E. Felton at the Pennsylvania-West Virginia line and piloted through the Stark-Columbiana county line near Milerva. The four scouts and their lead-

TWO MEN GET JAIL SENTENCE

Prisoners Plead Guilty to Destruction of Property.

Pleading guilty to charges of malicious destruction of property of value less than $100, Fred Dixon, Salem, and Charles Murphy and Elton Johnson, both of Pittsburgh, were fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, at Lisbon, yesterday afternoon.

They were indicted at the recent session of the grand jury for burglary. They agreed to plead guilty to charges of a lost serious nature yesterday when they were taken before the court.

They were charged with having broken into and robbed the garage of John B. Wilms, near Leontia, several weeks ago.

HOPPE TO TALK WITH JUDGES

Self-confessed Slayer and Lawyers in Disagreement.

TOLEDO, O., July 10.—Charles (Stanley) Hoppe, who pleaded guilty to the first degree murder of 7-year-old Dorothy Sielagowski, and then signed a confession admitting the murder of Lily Dale Croy, school teacher, is expected to break with his attorneys and ask for a private conference with the three Lucas county judges who are conducting a hearing to establish Hoppe's mental status, it was reported here today.

Hoppe and others interested in his welfare held a private conference in his cell last night.

Hoppe's attorney electrified the court room last week near the close of the trial when they allowed their client to plead guilty, and then came forward with a signed confession of the Croy murder. Hoppe is said also to have admitted attacks upon numerous other women of Toledo.

George Kelly, Famous Sailor, to Take Post in Byrd Expedition

BOSTON.—After 40 years of seafaring on sailing vessels in all corners of the world, George Kelly, veteran first officer of the Yankee Line, intends to go "adventuring." He has just signed a contract with Commander Richard Byrd to sail to the South Pole in August with the latter's queerly devised sailing ship, the Samson.

First Officer Kelly will act in that capacity on the southward journey of the ship. He will return to New York as commander of the Samson and then set sail before southern breezes with additional supplies for the Byrd expedition.

Piano Tournament For School Children Planned in Chicago

CHICAGO.—Plans were announced here today by the Piano Industry of Chicago for a National Piano Playing tournament open to children of school age everywhere in the United States.

Conducted annually, these national contests will have their grand climax in an International Piano Playing Tournament during the Chicago World's Fair in 1933.

Chicago issued its challenge to the nation after a local tournament of more than 6,000 school children. The finals held at the Palmer House under the auspices of the Chicago Herald and Examiner were played before an audience of 3,000. A shoe maker's daughter, 15-year-old Johanna Siragusa, was acclaimed champion of Chicago.

Charlie Lindbergh And Jack Dempsey Chums in School

PORTLAND, Ore.—Two little boys with two big names are laboring hard in a public school here to master their A. B. C.'s, so they can pursue ambitions inspired by their famous namesake, Charles Lindbergh and Jack Dempsey.

Young Lindbergh, 9, has a complete set of trans-oceanic flights all mapped out—as soon as he finishes school. And 8-year-old Jack, is going to fight but some one will have to furnish a war as he intends to lead a troop of soldiers to battle.

The two boys are chums and popular at school.

Buddhists Plan Drive for Converts in Great Britain

LONDON.—A strenuous Buddhist campaign, which is to include the opening of a center where converts will be admitted to the Buddhist faith, is shortly to be started in London.

A party of leading "Bhikkus," or Buddhist priests, have left Ceylon for England to conduct the campaign.

A block of land has already been purchased for $35,000 on which the Buddhist temple will be erected and a Buddhist committee in Ceylon has been busily engaged in collecting funds for the enterprise.

the cheap labor of competing nations and to give employment to the workers, that they may buy the produce of our farms, is, of course, one of the outstanding issues of the campaign.

"Our people should vote to protect the American payroll, vastly larger than that of all the rest of the world. It is our one universal asset. We must protect it to maintain our high standard of living."

Work Consulted With Nominee.

The Hoover leader declared Work had consulted with the Republican nominee before sending out the letter. Consequently, he added, it must be taken for granted that Hoover approved the pronouncement on the tariff. He said Hoover would make a similar assertion in his own right in accepting the nomination.

An organization will be created shortly in the midwest, where James W. Good has been intrenched as western manager. All national committeemen from midwestern states will gather shortly in Chicago to create a liaison organization but in the end each state organization will be given the responsibility for carrying its own state for Hoover in November.

Hoover will leave Washington Saturday night, stopping off for 24 hours at Brule, Wis., to visit President Coolidge.

chards. Wires stretched above trees bombard insect life with an X-ray bombardment, said to be more effective than poisonous sprays. The experiments were stopped because they interfered with radio work, but the government wisely decided to permit experiments in early morning.

If electric bombardment can kill the codling moth, borer, scale or other fruit tree pests, it might also eliminate boll weevil and corn borer.

Man's great future war will be against insect and germ enemies. If he could apply to them an electric bombardment, fatal to their microscopic life, and harmless to larger creatures, as radium now fights cancer, one of the greatest problems would be solved.

Cancer Campaign Will be Launched At London Meet

LONDON.—The world war on cancer enters a decisive stage this month, when the international conference brought into being by the directors of the British Empire Cancer Campaign meets for the first time in London.

Four hundred and twenty cancer specialists from all parts of the world will attend.

It has been made possible largely owing to the generosity of Sir Richard Garton, honorary secretary of the campaign, who is bearing the entire cost of bringing over 100 of the delegates.

The chief meeting will be held at the Royal Society of Medicine. Other meetings will be held at the Radium Institute, St. Bartholomew's hospital, Royal College of Surgeons, St. Mark's hospital, Guy's hospital, Lister Institute, Medical Research Council Laboratories, and the Welcome Museum of Medical Science.

Foreign delegate will be received by King George at Buckingham Palace on the opening day of the conference, at present set for July 16.

Georgia Tobacco Men Make Changes To Boost Values

VALDOSTA, Ga.—Radical changes in the history of bright leaf tobacco industry in this state have been made during the present year, according to experts here, which will bring thousands in additional wealth into this section during the tobacco season.

Last year only one-third of the tobacco leaves were "quality" tobacco while this year the leaves are smaller and two-thirds of the leaves are rated as "quality," and one-third trash.

MRS. GALLOWAY, AGED 41, DIES

Nee Marguerite Barnes Succumbs in California.

Mrs. Robin Adair Galloway, nee Marguerite Barnes, 41, formerly of East Liverpool, died at the Pottenger sanatorium, Monrovia, Cal., Sunday evening.

She was a daughter of the late T. J. Barnes, who conducted a grocery store in the Diamond for many years. The family moved to Ben Avon, Pa., where they lived until two years ago when Mrs. Galloway went to Arizona, for the benefit of her health. She had been in California sanatorium for several months.

Besides her husband, who is employed by the Devco Construction company, Neville Island, Pa., Mrs. Galloway is survived by a son, Leo, 4, and her mother, Mrs. T. J. Barnes, who has been with her daughter in the west. Her father died about 10 years ago and is buried in Riverview cemetery.

Funeral services will be conducted in Monrovia, Friday afternoon. The body will be cremated in California.

CALL THE DOCTOR WITHOUT DELAY

It seems to be a human failing to put off calling the doctor until it is thought that his services are absolutely necessary.

The tragic part of that truth lies in the fact that unnumbered thousands of lives are lost yearly because of that utterly wrong attitude.

The average person is not in position to judge when an illness is, or is not, dangerous, and if for no other reason that fact should urge that the physicians attention be secured without delay.

If you MUST err let it be on the side of safety. It is far better to get the doctor's advice even though the trouble proves not to be serious than to call him when his help is too late.

Let us fill your prescriptions.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

GANG WARFARE CLAIMS FOUR IN BROOKLYN

Two Porto Ricans Killed and Two Wounded.

GUNMEN ESCAPE Police Believe Five Murderers Shot Wrong Men.

NEW WATERFORD, July 10.—Brooklyn's gang warfare flared up again last night, the toll being two dead and two wounded.

Police expressed the opinion today, however, that the murderers made a mistake and shot the wrong men. All four victims were Porto Rican longshoremen and had no known connection with any gang.

The murderers, five young men, shot from a fast moving green sedan and moved down their victims with deadly accuracy. Only four bullets were fired and each found its mark.

Police believe the five marksmen were involved in a feud as a result of the recent assassination of Frankie Yale, former king of Brooklyn's underworld, and may have been imported here from Chicago. The quintet escaped in the green sedan.

The dead were Toffito Marrero, 22, and Florentino San Just, 19. The wounded are Roubie La Porto, 19, in a serious condition at Cumberland street hospital with a wound in the left jaw, and Isaac Garcia, 18, who was shot in the left shoulder.

The streets were crowded at the time of the shooting.

Police admitted that the victims may have been connected in some way with the Yale shooting, and were intentionally shot, or may have been involved in the smuggling of drugs and were shot by men not connected with the Yale affair.

Iowa's Corn Yield In 1927 Again Shatters Record

DES MOINES, Ia.—Iowa's corn yield in 1927 again exceeded all other states, according to a report of assessors made to the state department of agriculture, which gives 380,044,671 bushels as the crop for that year.

The crop last year was 50 percent greater than that of Illinois and exceeded by 30 per cent the crop of the nearest competitor, Nebraska. About one seventh of the total corn crop of the United States was produced in Iowa, the report indicates.

Iowa raised 268,774 less acres of corn in 1927 than in 1926 and 332,937 acres less than in the peak year of 1925. Although the reduction in 1927 seems large when expressed in acres, yet it amounted to only a reduction of 2.4 per cent of the acreage raised in Iowa in 1926.

12 STATIONS FIGHT RADIO BOARD RULING

Decree Orders Them Off Air on August 1

150 OTHERS QUIT Court Battles Will Follow Federal Decision.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Twelve radio stations, principally of the northwest, today launched vitriolic attacks on the Federal Radio commission in protesting its decree ordering them off the air August 1.

They constituted the day's list on the commission's docket of 167 stations opposing the ruling. At least a two-week hearing is in prospect.

The decree constituted the commission's first test of power over the air.

After the decisions will come the stiffer battle in the courts. The commission's ruling was declared to be "in the interest of radio betterment."

A number of the original 162 stations did not oppose the mandate. Stations to be heard today are: WQQ, Chicago; KDLR, Devil's Lake, N. D.; WEHS, Evanston, Ill.; WGB, Milwaukee, Wis.; WQMT, Manitowish, Wis.; WKHZ, Ludington, Mich.; DRAX, Philadelphia; WPRE, Cincinnati; WLBB, Farmingdale, N. Y.; WBRE, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; WTAD, Quincy, Ill.; and WLBC, Muncie, Ind.

In their luxurious bathrooms 9 out of 10 screen stars care for their skin this way—

In the dressing rooms of all the great studios, too, Lux Toilet Soap is used

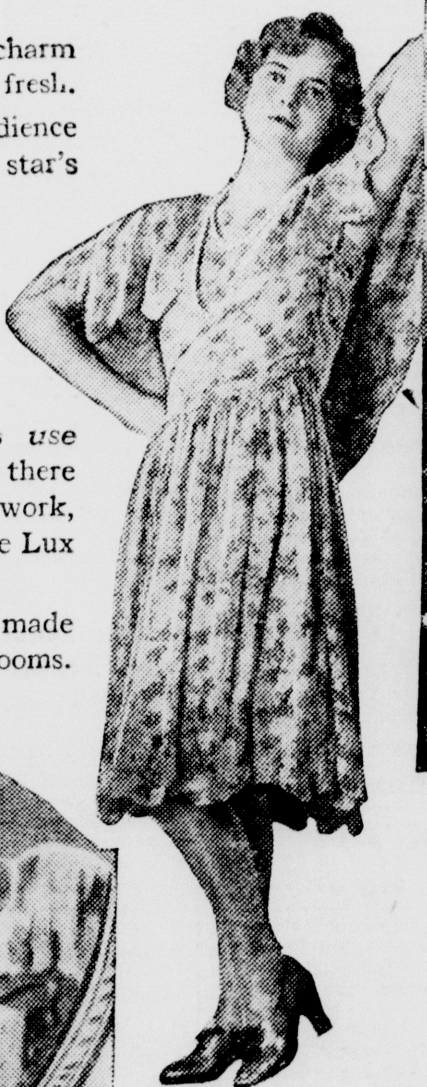

HOW deeply it stirs you—the charm of smooth, soft skin, dewy fresh.

A thrill runs through the audience when the close-up brings the screen star's alluring loveliness so near to them.

Directors insist on exquisite skin, for a star's skin must be satin-smooth to triumph under the glaring lights used in the close-up.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. In Hollywood there are 433 actresses doing important work, including all stars. 417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap—96%!

All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

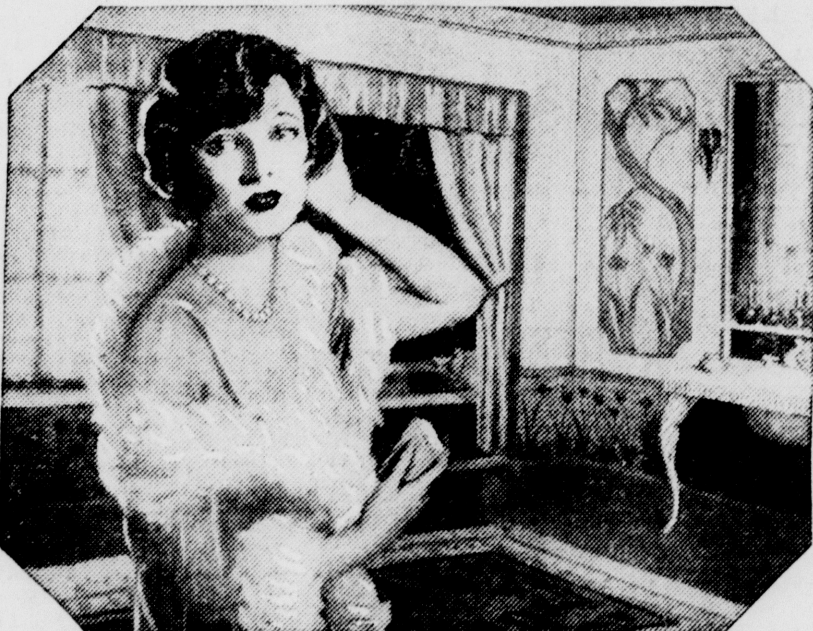

MARY BRIAN'S fresh young beauty inspired this delightful bathroom.... "Perfect skin is a business, as well as a social necessity to a screen star. Lux Toilet Soap certainly keeps 'studio skin' in perfect condition," says this charming little Paramount star.

CLARA BOW'S vivacious, auburn-haired beauty is outlined against an especially designed mirror.... "The wonderful lather of Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping skin in perfect condition," says this popular Paramount star.

"Even the most expensive French soaps could not leave my skin more wonderfully smooth than Lux Toilet Soap does," says LOIS MORAN, winsome, blonde star in Fox Films.

CORINNE GRIFFITH, First National star, whose wistful loveliness receives the most fastidious care, says... "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin the same velvety feeling expensive French soaps do."

McGraw Launches Assault Today Against Cards In St. Louis

McKechnie Nine Gains As Giants Bow to Bucs

Start Series With a 4½ Game Advantage Over Easterners; Reds Meet Robins; Yanks Divide With Browns.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The most crucial series of the season to date starts in St. Louis today when the Giants will launch an assault against the league-leading Cardinals. The Cards start the series with an advantage of 4 1/2 games, as a result of their 8 to 5 win over Boston yesterday while the Giants lost their third game in four starts against the Pirates.

Rickard Predicts Big Gate

Interest Mounts Despite Much Adverse Ballyhoo.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, July 10.—After pains taking inquiry into the situation, I am able to declare today that there is absolutely no interest in the Tunney-Heeney heavyweight championship fight, scheduled for July 26, except among those who are going about saying that there is absolutely no interest in it. I, therefore, am forced to the assumption that the affair will play to a sell out, leaving those identified with it nothing to do but retire to a life of ease and great refinement. The interest among those who say there is no contest has become almost appalling during recent days.

As a matter of fact, if they were laid end to end—well, as a matter of fact, if you did anything else with them you would be doing them a personal favor. Mr. Rickard doesn't plan to be so considerate. He expects to stand them toe to heel before the box office and let nature take its course.

Anyhow, for a populace that is supposed to be lukewarm toward the situation, there is an awful lot of people in this town intrigued by the question of whether the fight will make money or return Rickard a profit. To be more explicit, will it or will it? I'll admit this is a very exciting kind of a question and, while the boys are wondering about in their abstraction trying to solve same, it seems possible that some few of them may find themselves in the Yankee stadium on the night of July 26 in order to get the answer first hand.

The fight itself is no attraction and never was. But the people who are so positive it is nothing, have made

Loughran Loses Rank as Real Contender Against Champion

Seems to Have Lost Much of His Former Speed—of Both Hand and Foot.

By Davis Walsh

NEW YORK, July 10.—It doesn't seem more than a few weeks ago that the writer, among a gullible others, was hailing Tommy Loughran as a really dangerous threat against Tunney and the heavyweight title. That's one thing about one: Once I hail them, they stay hailed, also hauled and heeled. Loughran hasn't been able to make a really good fight against the men in his own division since I tried to match him with the heavyweight champion. He seems to have lost much of his former speed, both of hand and foot.

That he continues to hold the light heavyweight championship is due mostly to the fact that, essentially a fighter when he is hit, the young man has refused to stay licked from one round to another.

Gets Up and Wins.

Lomski had him flat on his shoulder blades in the first minute of play. But he got up. And when Lomski laid him out once more, he got up again—and won. On the face of it, there is little to become indignant about in connection with a performance of that kind. Only the good ones get up—and stay up.

Still, it is questionable whether a mere swifter like Lomski should have any right to have Loughran down in the first place. The circumstance seemed to indicate that Thomas was not himself and the fact that he decided to take a long significant. It may have been that he thought none too well himself of the fact that a swifter had been able to nail him on the head bell. That was in January.

He returned to ring at Louisville in May to take a ten-round decision over Joe Sekyra. Afterward, he called this just a workout. Mistakes will happen, of course, and this one was mine. I thought from the way Sekyra was clipping him on the frontispiece that Thomas was in a fight. I wouldn't go so far as to say that Sekyra couldn't miss him that night, all I know is that he didn't, not often, anyhow. The old flashing Loughran, who had outstepped Slatery in December, was not with us on that occasion.

The Latzo Battle. Those who witnessed his subsequent title fight with Pete Latzo said that, if a decision had been given at the end of ten rounds, Latzo would have had it. "The latter is as tough as a night in jail and an excellent club fighter these many years but Outbatted, the Cards scored five runs on homers by Bottomley and Harper, the former being his 19th of the current campaign. An injury kept Frank Frisch out of the lineup. The Giants lost, 5 to 3.

The Reds, who have copped seven of their last eight starts, take on the fast-stepping Brooklyn today. For the third straight game, Cincinnati beat the Phils by one run yesterday, 5 to 4. The Dodgers made it three out of five from Chicago when Dazzy Vance stymied the Bruins, 6 to 2.

After Herb Pennock had blanked St. Louis, 4 to 0, outpitching Beck and Wiltse, the Browns slammed four New York second string hurlers for twenty hits and plastered the Yanks, 12 to 5. The two teams split their six-game series.

Collecting 23 hits, the Athletics kayoed George Grant, Cleveland hurler who had won seven straight games, and swamped the Indians by a 14 to 4 count.

The White Sox made it seven victories in ten starts by trimming Washington, 3 to 1, in a duel between Thomas and Jones. The Sox took fifth place away from the Nats and are only one game away from a first division berth.

Detroit's hopes of getting out of the cellar received a terrific jolt when the Tigers were two-timed by the Red Sox, 4 to 0 and 8 to 2.

It something by their reiterated.

Rickard estimated yesterday that his advance sales have reached about $350,000. He repeated that the gate would go far over a million dollars. He added that everybody connected with it would make money. It is one thing to talk up a proposition months in advance; quite another, to make a fool statement only two weeks ahead of time, leaving the door open for this to be remembered and held against you. It is doubtful if Rickard is that kind of a mouth organ.

For one thing, he has found it to be good business and get himself a reputation for being right almost every time out. His natural tendency would be to preserve this reputation. If Rickard waits until this late date to re-affirm his old estimates of the crowd and gate, it mightn't be a second class idea to take his word for it, pending further developments.

North Randall Won't Give up, Says Devereux

Will Hope for Smoother Sailing Next Season.

CLEVELAND, July 10.—"North Randall won't surrender yet," said President H. K. Devereux, of the Grand Circuit, today, following his plea of guilty late Monday to a charge of suffering gambling at the North Randall race track last week.

"We'll hope for better times next season," Devereux declared. "We're not going to try to evade the law and if we're not able to operate as we have for the past half century we may have to quit business."

Three employees of the North Randall course, arrested with Devereux, pleaded guilty to violation of the gambling law. The fine in each case was $5 and costs, suspended.

39 Countries Will Compete At Amsterdam

Dutch Bands Practicing on National Anthems.

AMSTERDAM, July 10.—Thirty-nine nations have indicated their intention of entering competitors in track and field sports at the Olympic games this summer. Always the piece de resistance of the Olympics, the individual track and field sports are expected to total more than 500.

The nations to be represented range alphabetically from Argentina to Switzerland, geographically from New Zealand to Finland and in athletic strength from the United States to the Principality of Monaco.

Individual entries for the events must reach Amsterdam by July 8, but alterations are allowed up to July 19. Since the United States team will not reach Amsterdam until July 20, final alterations in the American entries will probably be radioed from the S. S. President Roosevelt enroute from New York to Amsterdam.

Dutch military bands who will furnish music for the games are busy practicing the national anthems of scores of countries. Olympic regulations provide that the national anthem of the country winning first place in each event shall be played shortly after the event while the nation's flag is unfurled from the Olympic flag pole.

Experts predict that the Star Spangled Banner will be heard more often than any other national hymn.

This dreaming of massive gates has been aided and abetted in the past by Mister Jack Dempsey, the ex-King of Sock, who is as colorful as a sunset.

At the present moment Mister Rickard has his sleeves rolled up and is prepared to shoot the ballyhoo on the coming heavyweight bout between Mister Tunney, the titleholder, and Mister Tom Heeney, who, after various eliminations, was chosen as the 1928 model challenger for the crown.

And Mister Rickard is, naturally, again figuring on taking in much money at the turnstiles and over the counter in advance sales.

Just how his dream for this year is going to materialize remains to be seen. It is the first time in some years that Tex has gone to the post without the aid of the colorful Mister Dempsey and, as a side light to the scrap between the champion and the challenger, it will be interesting to see how it works out.

The boys who rest their chins on the stretched canvas of the ring and spend all of their time in writing of things fictive seem to agree that when it comes to color the coming fracas is going to be as devoid of that article as one of these political meetings is long on oratory.

They say that Mister Tunney, since becoming boss of the division, has shown nothing approaching color nearer than his knowledge of Shakespeare, and they are rather inclined to laugh that off.

Mister Heeney, while being dubbed the Solid Rock from New Zealand, remains drab and uninteresting, from the viewpoint of the wise ones. In other words, they agree that you wouldn't expect to find either of these gents driving a lavender car with orange wheels up the boulevard and that would be considered merely a modest gesture for Mister Dempsey when the Manassa Mauler was training for a skirmish inside the ropes, and seeking publicity.

These wise ones also point out the fact that neither of the gladiators, who are billed to appear in the next heavyweight duel, tote a sleep producer. They figure that in an evening's entertainment of this character old John R. Ticket-buyer likes to look forward to a little crashing and while "One-Eyed" Connolly and Tam-Young will doubtless be on hand old John R. likes to see his crashing done in the ring and not at the gate—especially in view of the prices at which Rickard has scaled the house.

So the financial outcome of the coming boxing tournament is going to be as interesting, in one way or another, as the tournament itself.

There is a certain clique in New York, however, that feels that Mister Rickard knows his public and that with the announcement of the quarrel the "big gate" was as good as "in the bag." They figure that Tex is too wise and too old in the game to book an attraction that he could not ballyhoo up to a point where he had the voters goofy and the old iron men clinking into the coffers.

Undoubtedly Rickard is a wise manipulator of fighters and finances. He is a shrewd judge of mankind and that takes in fighters as well as the customers. It is difficult to see how he could stage a flop—especially a financial flounder and we're talking finances now and not fights or fighters.

Still, as the boys say, a million bucks is a pile of bucks—but then again, that's the way Tex has become accustomed to figuring these things.

NEW YORK HEAVY ON OLYMPIC TEAM

NEW YORK, July 10.—Alex Kaletchitz, New York state amateur heavyweight champion, has been chosen to fill the place on the American Olympic boxing team left vacant by the switch of George Hoffman, national amateur heavyweight champion, to the professional game.

Kaletchitz was the winner of an elimination contest staged by the amateur athletic union here last night.

Eastern New Zealand has begun to build after the recent storm, which was the greatest ever known there.

Rib Allen Loses at 12ft., 6 in.

Must Wait Four Years More for Olympics.

LOWELL ALLEN, Salem high school pole vaulter, will have to wait four years before getting another chance at the famed Olympic games. Allen, considered as a possibility for this year's team following his sensational performances in the pole vault, was unable to land a place in the final tryouts Saturday at Cambridge.

The Salem lad was eliminated from competition at a height of 12 feet, 6 inches.

He was competing against the best 12 pole vaulters in the country. A strained side, serious enough that it prevented him from practicing except on two occasions during the week prior to the tryouts, was largely responsible for Allen's inability to pass the 13 foot mark, a feat of which he is consistently capable.

Allen's side was hurt when he vaulted to new heights in national interscholastic competition and has never fully recovered.

Industrial Baseball League Re-Organizes For Second Half

Arrangements Are Made For Three Title Games

Turk Nash and Wellsville to Battle in Series if Motors Beat Billiards; Howell is Traded to K. T. K.

With harmonious relations prevailing from start to finish, in direct contrast to the warlike attitudes of last week, managers of the City Industrial Baseball League, which has been threatened with disruption in the last few days, last night went into a huddle in the chamber of commerce rooms and emerged with a six-club organization and their differences completely patched up.

BUCS RELEASE BACKSTOP VET

EARL SMITH

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—Earl Smith, veteran catcher, was given his unconditional release yesterday by the Pittsburgh Baseball club. Smith has been working under a handicap most of the season and in one of the early games he met with an injury at Cincinnati which put one of his legs out of commission.

After recovering the use of the damaged limb, Earl and Bush did not appear to hit it very well and soon after the deal by which Charley Hargreaves was obtained from Brooklyn, the Pirate leader announced that he was willing to turn Smith loose. Waivers were obtained from all clubs in the two major leagues and then Earl was pronounced a free agent.

Earl Smith's act in punching Dave Bancroft last summer while the latter was manager of the Braves caused much bitter feeling against him, but by his aggressiveness, he also won many admirers. He still should have a lot of good baseball in his system, as he is little past the age of 31 and is a smart catcher. He has worn the uniform of the Braves and Giants.

COUNTESS STOEFFEL, BIG GAME HUNTER, DIES IN CALIFORNIA

DENVER.—Finis was written to one of the most colorful careers of the west when the former Countess Stoeffel died in Los Angeles. Known in the California city as Mrs. Clark Ustick, her real identity was not learned for some time after her death, which resulted, physicians said, from chronic heart trouble.

Countess Stoeffel was six times married, her first two husbands being foreign noblemen. Her name was changed, by marriage, in this order, to Countess von Fischer, the count being a German nobleman; Countess von Stoeffel, the second husband, being an Austrian nobleman; Mrs. W. O. Wood, Maguire, Henshaw and Clark.

Fame as Huntress.

She gained fame as a big game huntress in foreign lands, and was widely known throughout the Rocky Mountain region as a special officer of the Colorado Humane society.

Countess Stoeffel was given "front page" publicity in 1921 when she captured six young coyotes near Derby Lake, in Colorado. At the time she was on the lookout for persons alleged to have been shooting pheasants. She was acting as an officer of the Colorado Humane society.

In October of the same year she was hunting in Eagle county, Colorado, and with no protection but a bulldog and her gun. A huge black bear stalked across her path and she opened fire on it. The bear charged on her standing on its hind feet, she said, and pursued her for some distance until finally she tripped and fell on a log. She had fired several shots into the beast by this time and the bear was weakening. The bear collapsed not ten feet of her from the loss of blood due to the wounds which she had inflicted.

Ferocious Bears.

She told friends in Denver after this escape that the bears of Colorado were much more ferocious than the leopards of Africa.

In December of the same year she located a son, Carl Heinrich Fischer, Greiff, who had been stolen from her while in Switzerland at the age of four years. He had fought in the world war with the German forces and had been wounded.

Included in her six marriages were two foreign alliances with foreign counts.

Day Train Sleepers

Now Proposed for French Tourists

Sleeping cars in day trains may be the next step in the campaign to make France popular with the tourist from overseas. Local steamship managers admit this possibility.

Before returning, the homeward night of it in the Montmartre or Montparnasse district. If his boat-train leaves in the morning he is in sore need of some rest. Hence, steamship companies receive daily requests for sleeping car accommodations on the morning boat trains.

Lack of rolling stock has hitherto prevented the state railways from yielding to the usual demand.

Autobuses Busy in India.

Autobuses have become so busy in India that they have made serious competition for the railways, who, in turn, are fighting back. In Calcutta and vicinity they have seriously injured the railway suburban service, and are beginning to be felt in Bombay. Officials of the principal rail line in Bengal report that buses have seriously cut into the road's business by running parallel to its lines. In self defense one railway has started rail-omnibus service.

Dutch Reformed Church Bans Short Skirts and Dancing

CAPTOWN.—Dancing, short skirts and face powder are banned by the Dutch Reformed church of South Africa.

"Dancing," according to some leaders of that church, "leads straight to hell."

Proposals are now being made to excommunicate church members who refuse to give up dancing. This means the refusal of all the sacraments, including marriage and baptism.

Special forms of "modest dress" for women are to be advocated. And fierce attacks are made on girls who use powder or rouge.

Paddock Will go to Olympics

Convinces A. A. U. Moulds of Unsullied Record.

NEW YORK, July 10.—When the American Olympic team sails down the bay on the President Roosevelt tomorrow, Charlie Paddock, the "world's fastest human," will be aboard and eagerly looking forward to victory at Amsterdam.

"I'll do my best to win for America," the famous sprinter declared, following his exoneration of charges of professionalism by the Amateur Athletic union last evening.

The A. A. U. unsullied as a result of his activities in moving pictures and his personal appearance on the stage with his picture, Paddock attended the hearing and signed an affidavit that he was not paid for his film work.

The clearing of Paddock came after a lengthy deliberation in the office of the A. A. U. in which Dan Ferris, chairman of the national registration committee, and Bob Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific association and vice-president of the American Olympic committee, took the leading parts.

After Weaver had stoutly defended Paddock throughout the meeting, it was announced that nothing could be found against the Californian and that he was eligible to represent this country. The exoneration cost Roland Locke a chance to run in the 100 meet, for Locke had been named an alternate in case Paddock had been found guilty of the charges.

There still remains to be settled the case of Ross Nichols, Stanford hurdler, who fell in the final hurdles when one of the obstacles, was out of place and higher than regulation. Coach Chink Templeton of Stanford will take up the case with the final court of appeals, General Douglas McArthur, president of the Olympic committee today.

The rural elm which was planted in the park at Spa, the watering place, has fallen.

"YOU CAN BUY A BIGGER CAR BUT NOT A BETTER ONE"

The success of the new Oldsmobile is easy to understand when you know why this new Six was created and how it was perfected.

It was created specifically for those whose preference is for a truly fine automobile. It was developed to standards of quality, style and value that made no compromise with price. It was proved by over a million miles of relentless testing.

In performance, in comfort, in ease of control, in sophisticated beauty—it invites the most exacting comparison with the finest and costliest cars being built today.

Its new high-compression engine—embodying the most advanced features of design—provides true fine-car smoothness, snap and speed. Its insulated chassis and silenced interior create true fine-car environment. Its modish Fisher bodies reveal a new expression of fine-car beauty; while such features as Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and radiator shutters contribute the final touches of fine-car luxury.

That's why thousands who have seen it—inspected it—driven it critically—have said, "You can buy a bigger car, but not a better one!"

THE FINE CAR OF LOW PRICE

The Constant Flame

Narrative of Love and Struggle
Against Temptations

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Kitten strangely sober, little face spiritualized, a glory in the amber eyes. At her side the dark boy so young, so tender, so filled with lofty purpose.

He came to Emily before he took Kitten away and pressed her hand between his palms. "I'll always be good to her," he said.

"I know you will, Ted. Bless you."

Never! Less she wept over the bride. "You're going to be happy, Kitten-cat?"

"Emmy, dear! I've never thanked you!"

"There, now. Why, it's all right, darling. Emmy under."

"I do love you so. Next to Ted. Isn't he wonderful? I'm going to be a good wife to him. Well, I've learned. Good-bye, Emmy—Muz. Good-bye."

Then went to the "cute little bungalow" Ted had made ready and began to live, as he said, "like a king and queen."

Things were quieter after that. Stella, feeling at last she could leave her baby, came to work in the shop. She saw none of the romance there Emily had found; colors were just colors to her and not living beauty; she never had experienced the fascination of just Pretend.

But she worked earnestly and what she lacked in imagination she made up in effort. Frances, called her dependable and was satisfied.

Eventually Emily went back to scanning the society column. And it was on the day she read of Mrs. Dirk Aistyne's trip abroad that she saw Marty's engagement announced.

Mrs. Van Aistyne, the item ran, had gone to Paris to this suit for divorce. While there she would be the guest of Miss Marilee Grainger who has taken up a permanent residence in the French city.

Then: "Judge and Mrs. Samuel Morrow announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne, to Mr. Martin Aloysius Nolan. The marriage will take place in October."

"So it was ambition," Emily reflected. "Not just poor little Kitten. Well— But suddenly she laughed. "One would think I cared. Probably they love each other and are very happy. I'm sure I hope so."

She forgot it then, so completely as to be rather startled later when she read of the wedding plans.

Kent had been out of town a month or more and she was glad. His absence seemed an opportunity; a time in which to pull away from him, from all he had meant through the Wickert affair and afterward.

Emily did not try to deceive herself about her love for him. It had grown with the years; nothing she had thought or felt or experienced had changed it; nothing could change it. Kent to her was a young god and she wanted only to enshrine him in memory; to be alone, upon rare occasions, with the image of him, adoring priestess in a temple of dreams.

Before he went away he dropped into the shop some times, talking to her in his winsome, happy manner, even teasing her a bit as he did in the old days. Sometimes he asked her to drive and to dine at the Yacht Club, but she refused. Association, she felt, could lead only to pain for her. Harder to forget if she saw him often.

It was after one of his calls that Frances said a peculiar thing. "Remember you're one of the owners here, my dear. Your income from the shop—its sizeable, now, isn't it?—will grow."

"Have you ever thought if you wished to stop work that income might do for your mother very nicely? It will go on, you know."

"But why should I stop work, dear Frances?"

"Well," smiling, "you might wish to get married."

"The idea!"

But the sweet face was red and when Kent came the next time she tried to be distant. She didn't see him again before he left.

And now it was almost Autumn and Emily was beginning to think that soon she must shake off the inertia which held her so gradually. Plan something in the way of progress for herself. The long, long trail—she would tramp that head up and shoulders back. It was no part of her instinct to grow drab.

High resolution uplifted and comforted her; she felt a new exuberance. Walking up the hill that evening she sang a little; even when she saw in the society column that Kent had come home she was not shaken. She felt strong enough to set aside her love for him.

She still was planning, alone in the porch swing, when the moon rose. A great, burnished disc above the Tarrytown hills spreading an orange glow in the sky, drawing a path of light on the river. It powdered the garden white, made dark, mysterious shapes of the evergreens. She thrilled to the enchantment of it.

And thought of Kent. A vivid, joyous vision came to her of the night under the pergola; a night like this when he had leaned toward her and said she was the prettiest girl in Lyall. Prettiest and sweetest, he had said. So fine, so dear, he was. . . .

Almost she could hear him singing again the magic song:

"Oh moon of my delight that knows no wane,
The moon of heaven is rising once again—"

Vibrant and soft his voice, very tender; it filled her with an overpowering sense of beauty. She tried to put it from her mind but the song went on:

"How oft hereafter rising shall she look Through this same garden, and for me in vain!"

She knew then that it wasn't fancy. A tall figure was coming down the lane, head back, face to the stars; a tall boy, singing as he walked.

Beautiful—oh, infinitely beautiful that he should come to her like this. So natural it seemed—the pause at the gate, the quick step on the walk. His nearness, his dearness beside her there.

"Emily! Little white flower—dearest, dearest—" His arms about her, lips on her hair, her eyes—the kiss that swept her as with ecstatic, soaring music.

She could not speak, only think, "This is love; this is Kent. Meetin' me at the Lily Lock—oh—"

"You do love me, Emily? Enough? I've wanted you so! I didn't know what it was. I'll never let you go again. Sweetest and dearest, do you love me?"

"You know, Kent."

"We won't wait? Now I've got you—be married right away?"

But that brought her back to every day things; she was afraid. "How can we? Your father and mother—"

"They'll love you. I've talked to dad; want to hear what he said? I hope she'll consent to come into the family. We need a little thoroughbred like her."

"Kent! But I'm just a nobody. Father a factory-hand. And you!"

He laughed in a pleased way. "I'll tell you something if you'll never breathe to mother you know. My great-grandfather was a factory-hand. What do you think of that? Wore a red flannel shirt and put stocking-foet on the table and brought his sons up to fight and fear God. Does that even it up?"

"Why—"

"You speak about blue-blood, but all blood is the same color, Emily. We won't talk of this again. And how about next week? Thursday, say, or maybe Tuesday?"

She looked out over the river. The radiance of the moon fell upon two ships, white and slender, very graceful in the path of light. They were anchored side by side.

"Sweetheart—"

"Yes, Kent," she said.

THE END.

VIRGINIA VALLI WINS IN "ESCAPE"

Patrons who were fortunate enough to gain admission to the Ceramic theatre last night for the initial showing of "The Escape," featuring Virginia Valli and William Russell, were more than enthusiastic over this film version of Paul Armstrong's celebrated stage play. They were particularly warm in their praise of the marvelous work done by Miss Valli.

Centering about the life of a girl who is determined to escape the sordid surroundings of "The Kettle" and New York night-club life, the screen version is packed with human interest from the opening shot, in Gotham's tenements to the dazzling glitter of the Blue Moon Night Club, where world denizens held undisputed sway. It is one of the most graphic photographs seen in many months.

"WILD GEESSE" AMERICAN HIT

"Wild Geese," a picturization of the world famous novel of the same name by Martha Ostenso, and produced by Tiffany productions was shown here for the first time yesterday at the American theatre. It is one of the most gripping and telling screen stories ever flashed before an audience and held them spellbound throughout. Not a detail was lacking to make life and breathe into the screen this justly famed epic of a vision of American life hidden away in a cold and cheerless Minnesota farm.

Above all the cast, there stands out one of the most wonderful portrayals of a woman crushed under the whip lash of a brutal and menacing husband—the performance of Belle Baines, who as "Amelia Gare" creates another screen characterization that will raise this wonderful actress to greater heights than hitherto. Nearly everybody is familiar with the dramatic story of "Wild Geese"—the story of a family living on a drab and dreary farm in northern Minnesota—all of them dominated by a cruel and unrelenting husband and father—the mother held in subjection through a misdeed in her youth, she suffering in silence for the sake of her children. Then Judith the eldest daughter, awakes to love, thwarted by her father who fears the loss of his services, her attempt to kill him, and throughout the sweet love romance of the pretty schoolmistress and the son of Amelia Gare—the powerful and dramatic climax in which the father is sucked to his death by the farmland he loves, freeing thereby his enclaved and crushed family. A powerful wonderful screen play.

F. S. Huff, Jr., Named School Board Member

Pharmacist Selected to Fill Vacancy Caused by Resignation of C. A. Bollinger.

Frank S. Huff, Jr., pharmacist, was elected a member of the board of education to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. A. Bollinger, at a special meeting in the high school building last night. He will qualify next week.

Huff graduated from the local school and Ohio Northern university at Ada, O. He has long been identified with high school activities here and is president of the Purple and Gold club, composed of former students.

The board considered bids for equipping the laboratory of the high school but deferred action until the next session.

Annual budget will be prepared at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, August 14. Estimates will be forwarded to the state tax commission at Charleston. The levy will be laid at another meeting scheduled for August 28.

Prayer Meetings Here.
Prayer meetings will be held at the usual hour tomorrow night in the local churches with the respective pastors in charge.

TROOPERS STAGE RAID AT WEIRTON

Stephen and John Spanos, both of Weirton, were arrested on charges of violating the prohibition laws, when state troopers and Weirton police made a raid on the Crago farm, back of Calico hill.

Search revealed 75 gallons of liquor and 1,500 pounds of sugar. The raiders also confiscated two automobiles laden with liquor and a 100-gallon still.

The raiding party included Corporal Long and Privates Moringo, Johnston and Leebrock.

JUDICIAL TICKET WILL BE NAMED

Delegates from Hancock, Brooke and Ohio counties will meet in the Ohio county court house at Wheeling on Thursday, August 14, for the purpose of naming candidates for two judicial posts. It is expected that both judges, J. B. Sommerville and J. Harold Brennan, will be re-nominated without opposition.

2,100 CONVICTS IN STATE PRISON

Population of the state prison reached a new high mark yesterday when 23 new inmates were received from Cabell county. Twenty-two men and one woman were in the latest group of arrivals, the longest sentence noted in the commitment papers being seven years.

The prison population is now about 2,100, including 125 federal prisoners at Alderson and some 200 on contract

HINT BANKER'S PLANE DEATH STORY IS HOAX

Startling Reports Deepen Mystery of Belgian's Fate.

SIGHT PARACHUTE
Claim Loewenstein
Withdrew Funds
Before Flight.

LONDON, July 10.—Although the family of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, still maintained today that he had suffered an accidental death, two startling reports further deepened the mystery surrounding his fate.

Both reports tended to strengthen the convictions of those who insist that Loewenstein is still alive and that the story of his accidental fall from his plane while crossing the English channel was a hoax. Neither, however, has substantial confirmation.

The first of these stated that Loewenstein had withdrawn a sum equivalent to half a million dollars from his bank here before leaving Croydon in his plane.

The second originated in Dunkirk, France, where a fisherman stated he saw a parachute drop from the sky near the village of Braydunes, on the French coast, at about the same time Loewenstein's plane was supposed to have been overhead.

Despite these reports, however, funeral services for the Belgian banker will be held in Brussels tomorrow.

work outside the prison walls and at the other state institutions.

The rate of release is far less than that of arrivals. As the result of a recent meeting of the state parole board 15 or 20 were given their freedom by Governor Howard M. Gore.

To Attend Campmeeting.

Members of the Free Methodist church plan to attend the annual campmeeting which will open Thursday, July 19, on the grounds near the Anderson boulevard, East End, East Liverpool.

W. J. BROWN GETS HAWAIIAN POST

Newell Man and Family Will Sail August 22.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brown and daughter, Peggy, of Newell, will sail for Honolulu, Hawaii, from San Francisco on the steamer The Wilhelmina, August 22, where the former has accepted a position in the government education system of the Hawaiian Islands. He will assume his duties early in September, being located at Hilo, about 100 miles from Honolulu.

Brown who is a son of Postmaster and Mrs. Austin H. Brown, of Jefferson street, has been professor of chemistry at Blue Ridge college, New Windsor, Md.

RUNAWAY PAIR ARRESTED HERE

William T. Hodgkinson and Evelyn Rosemeyer, both of Ambridge, Pa., who ran away from home on Wednesday, July 4, were arrested by Justice John A. Myler and Constable John A. Talbott, near the Brooklyn school house. They were taken home yesterday by their parents.

Review Board in Session.
Members of the board of equalization and review are holding sessions this month in the court house at New Cumberland. Taxpayers with protests relative to assessments are required to appear before the board in person.

Mid-Week Services.
Mid-week prayer services will be held tomorrow night in the various churches of the city.

Cottage Prayer Meetings.
Cottage prayer meetings for members of the Church of the Nazarene will be held this evening in the home of Sherman Smith, Fifth and Washington streets, and on Thursday night in the home of Carl Six in Conco.

Two-thirds of the automobiles now imported into Switzerland are from America.

London's proposed motion picture theatre to seat 3,000 people, combined with a dance hall, will cost $3,000,000.
